Textual criticism Historically, scribes who were paid to copy documents may have been literate, but many were simply copyists, mimicking the shapes of letters without necessarily understanding what they meant. Such texts may range in dates from the earliest writing in cuneiform, impressed on clay, for example, to multiple unpublished versions of a 21st-century author's work. This means that unintentional alterations were common when copying manuscripts by hand. and expense of producing superior editions of his works have always been widely viewed as worthwhile. Intentional alterations may have been made as well, for example, the censoring of printed work for political, religious or cultural.
